
Recreational Aviation Australia and AirServices Australia Scholarships Information Sheet

Background

From 2010 AirServices Australia (ASA) generously donated funds to allow ten scholarship candidates each year to have their RAAus flying training subsidised. Due to the generosity of Recreational Aviation Australia (RAAus) members we are also able to fund additional scholarships, with the total number of scholarships and dollar amount of financial support for each candidate based on member donations.

Aims

The aims of Airservices - RAAus Scholarship programs are to:

- Assist people to complete their flying training at reduced cost.
- Support advancement into any career in aviation.
- Retain people who have commenced RAAus flight training.
- Encourage people to become active long-term members of the aviation community.

The scholarship is a support program for people with a demonstrated interest in aviation who are considering an aviation career. The program is particularly focussed on young people who have commenced flight training but who may, due to financial limitations, find it difficult to fly regularly. RAAus also offers scholarships for people over 25 years of age, to complete training for issue of an instructor rating and for people to complete training for Maintenance.

Flying scholarships are offered in two categories.
